IP Office: Enhanced Service, Lower Costs

One-number reachability: In real estate, accessibility is everything. Avaya takes accessibility to a new level by taking all the guesswork out of knowing which number to use. With Avaya IP Office, everyone gives out just one number—your agency's main number—and IP Office automatically forwards calls to the agent's mobile, home, or other phone. There's no need to give out personal numbers. Agents can screen out unimportant calls and have voice messages and/or faxes automatically routed to their mobile device as e-mail. Because, all phone contact goes through your main office number, it builds the image of your agency and provides more customer control.

Instant conference calls: When a deal is on the line and time is at a premium, IP Office makes it easy to connect all the parties using its built-in conference bridge. Agents can instantly set up a conference call anytime, anywhere using any phone. Because IP Office provides two 64-port conference bridges, your agency can have multiple conference calls simultaneously. This is not only convenient—it's a money-saver: it eliminates the fees you pay to outside conferencing services. In addition to the audio call, you can broadcast documents (i.e., web pages, photos of new listings).

Simple call handling: Handling your day-to-day call volume quickly, accurately and cost-effectively is critical to creating the kind of customer experience that drives repeat business and word-of-mouth. Avaya IP Office will help make it happen by delivering

- Call routing capabilities designed to minimize hold times.
- Point-and click call management that gives your call handlers an on-screen interface to see what agents are available and where, and also easily checking listings and other data.
- The ability for your IP Office system to instantly recognize repeat customers – providing the personal touch that drives repeat business.

Sharing call handling resources: If you have multiple offices, Avaya IP Office makes it easy to pool call handling resources to enable shorter hold times and more qualified agents handling the calls. Also share your messaging system and company directory across locations.

Home agents: Because the Avaya solution is an IP-based system, agents can work from any location—including their own homes—with all the call handling capabilities they need, and still be centrally managed. It's a cost-effective way to take advantage of qualified people for short periods of time.

Making it easy to get information:

Communications is best when it's fast and simple. With Avaya IP Office you can easily implement automated services to circulate information quickly: set up a distribution list for voice mails and e-mails that alerts all agents to new listings, price reductions, important announcements, etc.

Simple, low cost administration: IP Office takes the hassle out of reconfiguring your communications system to keep up with staff changes or to add or relocate phones and other devices. If a member of your staff leaves, or you want to set up communications on another device or in another location (including a home office), just plug in and power on—IP Office automatically reads the IP address of the device. If you have multiple locations, you can also easily manage all systems from a single Windows-based interface (no travel costs).
